The WADVS “Pathways to Education – bringing the classroom to the shelter” pilot program won Program of the Year at the Adult Learners’ Week 2016 awards. This award is sponsored by SACAL.

Pathways to Education is a collaboration between Women’s Safety Services SA (formerly Central Domestic Violence Service) and Women’s Education TAFESA.

The Pathways to Education Pilot Program was designed specifically for women affected by domestic and family violence, experiencing or at risk of homelessness and financial abuse to engage in foundation studies to move towards enrolment in TAFESA Women’s Education and/or further education and study. The program was run onsite at Western Adelaide Domestic Violence Service and Limestone Coast Domestic Violence Service to provide women with support and safety.
